Industrial Expansion Causes Population Increase in City

Largest Industry Supplied
by Educational Institutions

By Paul Ungrodt

In the Spring of 1823 Ypsilanti was established as a pioneer settlement on the Huron River by a small band of hearty frontiersmen who were pushing their way westward in search of a new home. The community received its unique and distinguished name in 1833 as a result of the admiration which the freedom-loving pioneers held for Demetrius Ypsilanti, a Greek patriot who was leading his country in a splendid fight against Turkish tyranny. Ypsilanti was chartered as a village in 1832 and as a city in 1853.

City Grows Rapidly

The community has grown steadily, especially so in the last twenty years. In 1920 the population of Ypsilanti was 7,400; in 1930 it was 10,000 and in 1940 the government census showed a population of 12,142. This means that the population has increased 20 per cent in the last ten years and 70 per cent in the last 20 years, the former increase being the third highest of any city in the state for the same period.

Geographically and economically Ypsilanti is very strategically located. We are on the rim of the Detroit metropolitan district, near enough to that city to enjoy most of its advantages, yet far enough removed to have an individuality and personality of our own. It is inevitable that the community should continue to expand through the years.

Two Colleges Here

For many years the reputation of our city centered around its educational institutions, the Normal College and Cleary College. Education is still our largest industry with 2,300 students living here approximately ten months of the year.

A most unusual expansion of industry has taken place, particularly in the last ten years. Ypsilanti now has twenty-one industries employing 400 people. This represents an increase of 300 per cent in the last decade. Just recently we have be-

Alumni List Fellow Graduates in Roll Call of Many Classes

By P. L. Crouse

Dear Friends:

Here we are at another commencement time—a time when the class of 1941 being graduated looks forward hopefully, wondering what the next twenty or thirty years will have in store for them, but having faith that it will be a more or less rosy future; while we of the classes of 1907, '08, '09, and '10 know what the past years have brought to us, and at this time our memory wanders back over the years, and we recall our own commencement day, and the classmates we were so close to at that time. The years have a way of separating us, and dimming our memory, and we lose track of the people who were once so familiar to us. So we pause to think back to those school days we all enjoyed so much, and to the classmates who have, in the course of their daily living, moved hither and yon, some staying close to the home town, and others venturing to the far corners of the earth. A few have passed on to their reward, and for those who are no longer with us, we pause a moment in remembrance.

When the committee asked me to check up on the members of the classes from '07 to '11, you will no doubt realize, as I have, that that was no mean assignment. But it has been a pleasant one, and while talking with other members of the Alumni about town, things have been recalled which some of you might have forgotten. And so this special alumni edition of the Sem is to help refresh your memory, and to acquaint you with the whereabouts and activities of as many of the Old Grads as it is possible to contact.

And so to start the ball rolling, we will take that illustrious class of 1907, the class that was always

Many to Attend Annual Affair of Association

Dues Are Established to Defray Expenses of Yearly Reunion

By Edith E. Lidke

The annual banquet of the Alumni Association was revived in June, 1939, after more than twenty-five years. At that time more than four hundred Alumni and members of the graduating class assembled for dinner and an evening of visiting and dancing. At least one or more members of each of more than fifty classes were present when the roll was called by the secretary.

A class representative system of contacting graduates was established. These class representatives have been asked to solicit help of classmates in tracing the whereabouts of graduates. With no addresses on record except in case of three classes more than two thousand have been secured in two years, and the search is still to continue until every graduate is accounted for.

In April of 1941 the officers, executive committee and class representatives held a supper meeting in the lunch room of the high school to plan for the annual banquet. It seemed desirable to the majority present to hold this year's reunion in Charles McKenny Hall.

At this same meeting it was suggested that annual dues of twenty-five cents be established to defray the regular expenses involved in purchasing and printing invitations and in entertaining the graduating class as dinner guests. This fee is payable to the treasurer each June either at the banquet or by mail.

President, Mac Begole, '22.

Vice President, Mrs. Richard Weir, nee Winifred Davis, '06.

Secretary-treasurer, Marie J. Kennedy, '15.

Members of the executive council are: Mrs. Lester Miller, nee Irene Seaver, '18; Clare Hewens, '22; Frederick Weinmann, '25; Foster Fletcher, '15; Martha Wolter, '31; Edith E. Lidke, '12. Ex-officio members—Mr. Norris G. Wiltse, principal; Mr. Ernest H. Chapelle, superintendent.

a jump ahead of Seniors that year. It was at the Senior prom that year, that they tied their colors to some pigeons and set them free to fly over the hall. It was on that same night that Charles Cleary, who was to make the important speech of the evening, was spirited away, and locked up in the barn out at Bruce Cameron's, putting a crimp in the Senior festivities for that night. As to the individual members of that class we have the following: Roy Parsons is still at the head of the Music Department in Highland Park Schools.

Madge Quigley is teaching music in the Detroit schools. We are unable to report on Miss Barlow, and also Miss Jessie Childs. George McKay, I believe, is a dentist in Detroit. Hazel Mudge is married and lives near Ypsilanti. (Unable to get further information on her.) Carl Wirth lives in or near Lansing. Kennard Pester is connected with the Thomas Bird Co., of this city. Herbert Connell I have lost track of. Max Seeger resides here with his mother and sisters. Dee Deuble is the better half of the Bruce Cameron family. Don Comstock is our city assessor. Have been unable to get any information about Therisa Knipp. Helen D'Ooge is the loving wife of Bob Daily who is a civil engineer in the East. No information on Mr. Osborne.

Harry Baker lives in or near St. Petersburg, Florida. Ben Thompson married Burel Sanford, and they live in Ypsilanti. Ben works for his brother Joe of the Joseph H. Thompson, Inc. Lawrence James was a chemist with the Reo Motor Car Co. of Lansing, for some time, I believe, and now resides at Portage Lake. Cora Davis is the wife of Roy Austin, and they live near here. Claude Mowrer married Edith Burt, who has passed away. They have a daughter who is married and lives in Marysville. Claude works for the Detroit Edison Co. Bly Quigley teaches in Detroit, and neither she nor Madge ever married.

We'll start with Cora Rohn who married a doctor and is living in Minneapolis, Minnesota. Jim and Grover Taylor, the last time I heard of them, they were working for the Wayne County Road Construction Co. and were living in Wayne. Truman Dean lives in Royal Oak. Lucy Williams married Loren Miller and they live in Traverse City, where Lucy is teaching. They have two daughters. Leo Whitmire is one of the leading dentists in this city, and the proud papa of a charming baby daughter, Charles Cleary, who for a few years basked in the Florida sunshine in St. Petersburg, is now back at his old stand at Cleary College, and living here in Ypsi. The two Lewis sisters, Sarah and Caroline, have retired from teaching in the local schools, and are living with their father.

Superintendent of Schools

Clara Ziegler Roberts, wife of Charles, lives on a farm west of town, on one of the busiest corners in this part of the state, U.S.-112 and U.S.-23. Jessie Smith is married, I understand, and is living in the north. Grace Clark is married to Don O'Hara and they live in northern Michigan. Have heard that Anna Allen is also living up north. Marie Clizbe married Ralph Gaudy and they have lived in and around Chicago for some time, at present they live in Evanston, Ill. Leone Depew lives here in Ypsi with her sister. Martha Ely teaches near Rochester, Michigan. Christine Erwin married a missionary doctor and they are living in the Far East at the present time. I believe that Harold Flowers has passed away.

Edna Mills married Ben Owen and lives near Rawsonville. I have lost track of Emery Nowlin, Philip Pease, and Marjorie Peace. Ruth Rouse is working in Ann Arbor and living with her folks, who live there. Hazel Olds is married and lives in Ohio. Allen Sherzer is a professor at the U. of M. in the Natural Science Department. Edna Letter lives in Ypsilanti and is connected with the Detroit Edison Co. in Wayne. Josephine Sherzer is doing social service work in New York City. Wiley Sanderson resides in Detroit and works for an automobile concern. Ina Post, Eva Proctor, Lucile Hawkins, Lillian Hertler, Eleonora Hutting, Arthur Lathers I have no information on. Harold Kilian lives at Portage Lake and teaches in Cleary College. Harold Harvey lives in Atlanta, Georgia, and is connected with an electric firm there. Evangeline Lewis is Dean of a girls' school in North Dakota, I hear.

John Alford lives in Ypsilanti and works for Henry Ford. Grave Brown is a very influential lawyer in Detroit. Austin Cline teaches in Detroit. Frank Coates works for Studebaker at South Bend Indiana. Barry Calvin lives in Chicago, and I understand he sells insurance. Hazel Cooper is still here in the home town. Worked at the Art Shop for some time, but is a lady of leisure now. Ralph Crane died in Camp Custer during the last World War. Wesley Dawson is the proprietor of the Martin Dawson Co. and is a member of the School Board here in Ypsilanti. Has a family of four fine boys. Ruth Dietz married George Moorhouse and they live with her father in his home on Maple St. Marjorie Doty married Iba Bassett, and is working in the Normal Office. Payton Draper lives on a farm south of Ypsilanti, and Ruth Draper is also married and lives on a farm near here. Agnes Dunlap is married and lives in Ohio. Harris Fletcher is a professor at the University of Illinois. Mary Flint teaches, and Cora Gleason Martin lives in Ypsi and works in a store here. Leone Howe married a minister, and they live in Winnipeg, Canada. Louis James sings with the Revelers for the Victor Recording Co., New Jersey. Walter James is dead and is buried out on the West Coast. Hazel Kilian is teaching in Detroit. Lee McGregor has passed away. Ross Smith teaches in Detroit. Arden Sweet lives in Ypsilanti and does a good job for Warner Dairy. He with his wife and two daughters live on Pearl St. Joe Thompson is still selling Dodge and Plymouth cars, and is the head of Joseph H. Thompson, Inc. Russella Wardroper is stenographer for the Hopkins-Thomas Insurance Agency in Ypsilanti. Alfred Wortley married Helen Showerman and they live in Detroit. Harry Wood married Marie Goetz and they have two sons, Fred and Jack. Harry has an auto agency in LaPorte, Indiana, where they live. John Woolsey works for Henry Ford, and lives south of town, and Louis Woolsey works for a local dairy in Ypsilanti and lives on Towner St. George Hall died a short time ago. Fred Reinhart lives in Detroit. Harry Williams conducts a printing business in the Masonic Temple in Detroit. Victoria Blashill is married to Harry Palmer, lives in Los Angeles, California, and runs a store there. The following names I was unable to get any information on, where they live or what they do: Lucile Strong, Edith Timmonds, Helen Richmond, Bertha Palmer, Anna O'Brien, Gladys Lathers, Vida Jarvis, Mable Jarvis, Linwood Hubbard, Charlotte Gorton, Bessie Edwards, Flossie Curtiss. Ethel Freeman married Tony Schultz and they live on Perrin St. in Ypsi. Have two boys and a girl still in school. And with that I close the Information Bureau on the Class of 1909.

Being a member of the Class of 1910 I am a little more familiar with the members of that class. Glenn Arnold is Colonel of the 32nd Signal Corps now stationed at Camp Livingston, La., married Doris Bell; they have two children, and live at 219 S. Washington St., Ypsilanti. Gladys Barker passed away several years ago at her home in Sheldon. George Becker has a fine position with the Michigan Ladder Co. of this city. Married Doris Grier, and they live on Whittier Rd. George still does a good job of singing both here and in Detroit. Lewis Bice is connected with an electric company in Detroit, he married Ella Roberts, also of our class, they have one daughter, and live on Linsdale, in Detroit. LeRoy Braisted is married and lives at 268 Pilgrim, Birmingham, Michigan. John Brooks lives in St. Petersburg, Florida. Is interested in real estate there, and also operates a race track. Charles Burkheiser is the only class member who ventured into foreign lands. He married an English girl, and is practicing dentistry in Cape Town, South Africa.

Marjorie Cleary married Arthur McKenny and lives on Wyoming, in Detroit. Percy Colvin came up to our class reunion in 1935. He represents a manufacturing agency for underwear in Peoria, Illinois. Gladys Cook lives here in Ypsilanti with her father and mother, and teaches in Detroit. Mary Davis married Harris Fletcher. She died during the last war. Alice DeFoe lives on LaSalle Blvd., Detroit, and teaches in the Detroit schools. John Deuble married Gladys Rains. They live in Flushing, New York, where he is the representative for the Pure Oil Co. of Michigan. They have one son, Bernard, who is attending the Normal College here. Harold Dickerson teaches in Detroit and lives at 11146 Gratiot Ave. Roy Dickerson has a grocery store on Summit St. where he lives. Has several children. Theron Finch lives at 422 Rosewood, Grand Rapids, Michigan. Do not know what he does. Ralph Gilpin lives at 1746 Boston Blvd., Detroit. The last I knew of him he was a traveling salesman.

Marie Goetz, as I mentioned before, married Harry Wood. She is the Welcome Wagon Hostess in LaPorte. Blanch Grigg married Wil-come part of a national defense area and we suddenly find ourselves the home of the world's largest bomber plant now under construction by the Ford Motor Company. It has been variously estimated that upwards of 60,000 people will be brought into the area as the result of this one industrial operation. Obviously they cannot and will not all live in the city of Ypsilanti, but the impact upon our social and economic life is something that we cannot overlook. Problems will arise and every attempt is being made by far-sighted community leaders to meet these problems in a sane and sound manner.

The United States census lists 190 retail establishments in our community employing over 550 men and women. Here again we must expect expansion along with population growth and we must have the foresight and the caution to so make our plans that our community will suffer the least possible shock from readjustment both as the defense expansion occurs and as it may decrease in later years.

In summary it should be said that Ypsilanti has always been a stable, well-balanced community. It is the combination of its educational, industrial, commercial and civic institutions which make it attractive as a place in which to work and to live.
